WLSA REACH

Contributor Guidelines

About WLSA REACH

WLSA Reach is a bi-annual magazine that brings together diverse voices and experiences in the field of international education. The theme of the Spring/Summer 2020 edition of Reach is the same as that of the 2020 WLSA Student Conference, Leading with Cultural Intelligence.

We suggest that contributors think about:

• Methods and ways education can be diversified and internationalized

• The implementation of international curriculum; both successes and challenges

• Individual experiences of creating and working with international education programs

• The role of secondary schools and higher education institutions in a globalized world

These are just suggestions. WLSA Reach acts as a dynamic forum; your own education, experience, and enrichment will direct the discussions and understandings surrounding international education.

Inclusive

Engaged

Informed

Specifications

WLSA Reach is written for an audience of educators, school administrators, school heads, admissions professionals, and other professionals interested in developments in the field. Circulation includes our network of Associate Schools, sponsors, and other professional affiliates.

- Please email your submission in a Word or Google document to design@wlsafoundation.org by Friday April 10 2020.

- Submissions should be written in a conversational, informal tone of voice in American English (or will be copyedited as such).

- Submissions should be unique: we ask that you do not submit any articles that have already been published (unless discussed in advance).

- Please submit either a one page (500 - 750 words) or two page (1500 - 2500 words) article. Submitting accompanying media like photos is strongly encouraged, provided you have distribution rights.

- Please provide a short (100 word) bio as well as your title, institution, a high-resolution headshot of yourself, and a link to your website if you'd like.

- Submissions may be copyedited to ensure confirmity with WLSA House Style.

WLSA
World Leading Schools Association